Criminology
SO 2250 A2 M-W-F 1:00-1:50 (E 306)

PREREQUISITE: Sociology 1000 (or equivalent)

INSTRUCTOR: Vince Salvo
Office: E 307 Phone: 539-2993 (532-0709)
Office Hours: M-W-F 10:00 - 11:00, by appointment, or anytime if I'm free.

NATURE AND PURPOSE OF THE COURSE:

Sociology 2250 is an introduction to the study and analysis of crime from a sociological perspective. The course attempts to answer the questions:

- (1) How much crime is there in Canada?
- (2) Who are the criminals and what are they like?
- (3) What are the major types of criminal behaviour?
- (4) Why do people engage in criminal behaviour? and
- (5) What are we doing to stop or at least reduce crime in our society?

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

- A. To understand the social and legal basis for the definition of crime and deviance.
- B. To understand the major issues, debates, and controversies which frame the attempts to measure the incidence of crime and the attributes of criminals.
- C. To understand the structural, cultural, and demographic characteristics of criminal behaviour;
- D. To understand the variety and variability of theoretical perspectives to explain crime and criminality;
- E. To understand how historical and contemporary responses to crime incorporate and reflect the goals of punishment, treatment, and prevention of crime.

EVALUATION METHODS:

Examinations: The examinations will be a combination of "objective", short answer, and essay questions. The final examination will cover materials from the entire course.

Book Report: A three page report on one of the books in the course bibliography (or a mutually agreed other book) must be completed for this course. Details will be explained in class.

Research Paper: A research paper (term paper) is optional in this course. If you think you want to write a term paper, I will make every effort to assist you toward a successful and rewarding experience. I have a hand out with suggestions for the structure and style of the paper. If you think you want to write a paper, make an appointment and we'll talk it over. The book report requirement will be waived for anyone writing a research paper.

If you want to write a paper, you must let me know before the first examination so we can adjust the weight on the examinations. You may assign up to 30% of your mark to the research paper if we agree.

Classroom Participation: Each person will start with a credit of 5 marks for participation. from time to time, each person will be asked to respond to specific questions. Failure to be able to respond will result in the loss of one mark. Extra marks will be awarded up to a maximum of five marks.
